

Metaphorical Thinking: Character Iceberg

Directions: In the space below use the metaphor of an iceberg to identify what you think your chosen character is hiding below the surface and what your chosen character freely displays for others to see. (above the surface)

Things to consider:

- What does your chosen character want others to believe about them
- What does your chosen character want to hide from others
- What character traits are easy for others to see about your chosen character
- What character traits does your chosen character want to keep from others

Name of chosen character:

Step two:

Place page numbers from the text next to your claims. The page numbers should contain proof to support your inference.